

Join our panel of experts for an interactive discussion on how the health of women can be affected by climate change across all stages of their lifespan, from prenatal to menopause, at the:

‘Time to act: managing the impact of climate change on women’s health’ symposium

This meeting is sponsored by Bayer.

Friday 3 May 2024 | 12:45 – 14:00 CET | Room 0B

Focus of Session	Led by
Introduction: The urgent need for action	Professor Hugh Montgomery
Panel discussion: Impact on women’s individual health across their lifespan (prenatal to menopause) of climate change	Professor Rossella Nappi
Panel discussion: Practical experience sharing	Professor Ali Kubba

Meet the faculty:

Hugh Montgomery

Professor of Intensive Care Medicine; Director of Centre for Human Health and Performance; Co-lead, Lancet Countdown on Climate and Health

University College London, UK

Rossella Nappi

Symposium Chairperson
Professor of Obstetrics and Gynaecology; Head of Reproductive Medicine Unit

University of Pavia, Italy

Ali Kubba

Senior Specialist in Community Gynaecology/Sexual and Reproductive Health

Guy’s Hospital, London, UK

DISCLAIMER:

Any opinion expressed reflects the speaker’s own experience or beliefs. If patient cases are included, these are assumed to be fictional in nature.

PP-PF-WHC-ALL-0332-1
PP-PF-WHC-ES-0461-1
Date of preparation: April 2024